

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A method described is distinguished by the fact that an external test device brings about the execution, in a program-controlled unit, of a program that initiates, performs or 5 supports the testing of the program-controlled unit. As a result, program-controlled units can be rapidly and reliably tested under all circumstances with minimal outlay.

REL/cp